Notes:-

Location:-

Set back from the road at the SE of a bend, between neighbouring buildings.

History:-

Two-unit, direct-entry cottage with hall and outer room. C1800, extended later. Subsidiary small dwelling to right end.

Exterior:-

Single storey and attic C18-type of cottage, on a roughly E-W axis, formerly two cottages. Rubble stone, covered in roughcast render, with traditional Welsh thatched roof. Taller range to N, with higher eaves and ridges and large roughcast stack to S end. West frontage has modern gabled porch to centre, heightened in 2002, with small 8-pane horned timber sashes with stone sills and plain reveals to each side.

S gable end has small attic light with timber lintel. Lower range to S is slightly recessed with single horned sash to W frontage, with stone sill. Stack to S end in painted roughcast. Modern ground floor projections to E behind both ranges, and small modern extensions to N and S ends. S extension is almost full height with imitation slate gabled roof and painted timber barge board

Listed:-

Included as a rare survival of a traditional cottage type for the area, and for its thatched roof- the last in the parish.
