New Work from Gallery S O

Craft Gallery
15 April - 20 June 2010

Gallery S O has recently opened in London, and this exhibition will show a range of contemporary studio jewellery and applied art by leading makers from Britain and Europe.

Felix Flury is a well-known Swiss jeweller making innovative work that focuses on conceptual theories. In 2003 he decided to open his own gallery in Solothurn, Switzerland. With his informed global perspective, he selected artists for Galerie S O with fresh creative ideas for jewellery and other art forms. Inspired with the gallery's success, he decided to expand his artistic domain, and being aware of the UK's shortage of such facilities, he opened another Gallery S O in Brick Lane, in the East End of London in 2009.

When lining-up his stable of artists, Flury focused his idea of 'exploring the parameters of the threshold between art and design'. His artists are well known and most have earned international acclaim for their accomplished work that employs a vast range of materials. The exhibition is curated by Ralph Turner.
